Identity and Representation in Graeco-Roman Antiquity

Graduate Student Classics Conference
Saturday March 18th, 2017
Keynote Speaker: Dr. Susan Alcock, University of Michigan

Abstracts for papers on Identity and Representation in Graeco-Roman Antiquity are sought for the Classics Graduate Student Conference at McMaster University. Abstracts should be no longer than 300 words, to be submitted to the address below.

We encourage papers exploring the themes of identity and representation from a variety of perspectives including, but not limited to, personal, political, social, cultural, or religious. We hope to consider questions of not only how the ancients viewed themselves, both personally and collectively, but also how they viewed their past and the world around them.

Papers delivered at the conference should be 15-20 minutes in length.

Submit abstracts electronically to Amanda Devitt: devittam@mcmaster.ca

Deadline for abstracts: Friday, December 2nd, 2016
Announcement of acceptances of abstracts: Friday, December 16th, 2016
